Proud, Proud: Gaian

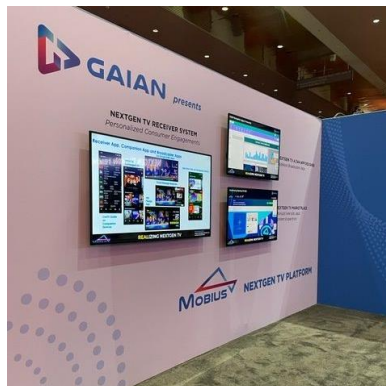

With time, Gaian has been making moves and marching forward into the future. Lets look at some of the moments that made us proud for being a part of Gaian.

Gaian Solutions at the 2021 NextGen TV Broadcast Conference at Washington D.C made a more extensive public showing of its 3.0 offerings as part of its Mobius platform along with being a Platinum sponsor for the event

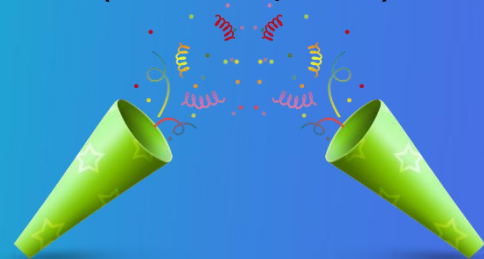

Consumer Electronics Show (CES) 2022 kicked off on 5th January 2022 in Las Vegas where Gaian had put up quite a show along with all the industry leaders. Gaian launched a NextGen TV receiver stack of hardware and software.

To the man who dreamt and turned it into reality,
We wish you an amazing Birthday!

Happy Birthday,
Chandra Sir!

Geek Talks: What is NFT?

A non-fungible token (NFT) is a non-interchangeable unit of data stored on a blockchain, a form of digital ledger, that can be sold and traded. In Simple terms, NFT is just like Crypto but its data units are different. In crypto currency, we talk in how many coins are bought and sold, whereas, NFTs are usually associated with digital files like photos, videos, audios, and other digital arts. Some have sold for millions, including an NFT by digital artist Beeple which went under the hammer at Christie's in March for an eye-watering $69.3 million. To purchase an NFT, the wallet must contain enough of the relevant crypto currency -- for example, ether (ETH) if the person is buying a token on the Ethereum blockchain. Currently, there are several risks associated with crypto-collectibles as NFTs possess significant market risks including financial and regulatory risk. As we have witnessed the many cases of frauds, experts feel that any digital underlying can be easily replicated and can lead to counterfeiting which is one of the most important risks associated with NFTs.
